They recorded some sides in 1934. There is some speculation that the group (as previously known as the Palisades, recorded as such for Swingtime Records in October 1933) Â· was hired to replace the Mills Brothers as Joe Williams' backing band. This can be disproved by the fact that the initial Palisades releases were recorded in December 1933. Also, unlike the Mills

Brothers, there is no evidence that the group ever recorded in the studio with the Mills Brothers as a lead group. In fact, the Mills Brothers and the Palisades were not really sisters but solo acts - in fact Jack Teagarden was married to Mills. Big Joe Williams had, as early as 1935, started recording with a regular backing band that included Jack Teagarden and Charlie Shavers. By the time of the re-recording of the Palisades (March 1936) these two had parted company and Charlie McCoy had joined the group. Within a year they had become the Tuleimanes. They are best remembered today for two songs. The first, "It's a Pity to Say Goodnight", was recorded in 1934 and was released that same year as a 78 r.p.m. single on Decca as TF 8276, Decca, and as GS 7803, Swingtime Records. It was also, in January 1935, released as a 78 r.p.m. single on Decca and as a 78 r.p.m. 45 r.p.m. on Victor
