These kayaks are designed to be used for leisure, sport and expedition. The Classic line offers soft cambered boats. The Classic Seal and Classic Typhoon are the most popular models. They are quick to learn and stable in waves. The RKZ Reaktor is a multi-purpose kayak that can also be used for surfing, fishing or for an endurance race. The RKZ René is a single stroke rigid kayak that offers the best handling and stability on rough water. The RKZ Kapitein is one of the most advanced touring kayaks and the ultimate sea kayak. The Kapitein is made from polyurethane foam making it light and responsive. Its wide beam offers exceptional stability. The kayaks will be available in summer 2018 and is expected to be around US$ 1450 per boat. SUPing Vancouver 2.0 In conjunction with the launch of the new line of kayaks, J Saffer is also launching the SUPing Vancouver 2.0 Program. The first event will take place on Saturday November 18th from 10:30am-1pm at Sunset Beach. You can learn how to stand on your surfboard while riding a wave and learn wave riding techniques through the SUPing Vancouver 2.0 program. All participants will receive a kayak, a SUP to go and an instructional manual. There will also be two taster sessions to familiarize participants with the equipment."Every system of government has a certain tendency to grow like a malignant tumor, working its way into all the organs of a nation, till it masters them, and occupies the whole soul." - Thomas Jefferson regulation, there is a need for sensing components which are exposed to high thermal and/or corrosive environments. In particular, these components must be able to withstand very high or very low temperatures, and must be able to perform over a long period of time under chemically aggressive environments. Examples of components which can be used for the aforementioned applications include vehicles, for instance internal combustion engines or vehicles. The exhaust gas temperatures of internal combustion engines are typical values which are used for example for the temperature control of an engine or a vehicle during its operation. Generally, the exhaust gas temperatures are in the range of 500° C. to above 1500° C. However, they may also be as low as 100° C. For example, components exposed to the exhaust gas of internal combustion engines may comprise catalytic converters. Catalytic converters used in vehicles for the treatment of exhaust gas temperatures typically comprise a honeycomb or ceramic matrix with one or more catalyst materials applied to the matrix.
