Adobe keeps releasing the same version of Lightroom without a new beta both and we have to keep waiting and hoping (i.e. hoping for that they will release new version of Lightroom a year after). I guess as long as the people are willing to keep trying out the old version, Adobe is willing to keep releasing the same version. I definitely would like to know all about something new that I didn't notice in Lightroom before. I will not be that excited about Lightroom anymore, if Magic Bullet is around. I can see where it is headed in the next few releases and it is going to be an uphill battle to keep up with the competition, so I guess I will probably not be able to go back to Lightroom. I love the way the dirt has been applied on the image. I get a lot of fun for Creative Suite from versions over the years. I was never bored by using these versions. Recently engaged on Photoshop Elements 10, lightroom 6 and also other versions over the years. Thankfully, Photoshop is a huge software with various tools that you can use the product.
